

I'LL BE DAMNED Lyrics and music © Jack Williams

I drove a ragged mile,
The moon above my car,
Just to ask your perfect friends
Just how you really are.
They said "She's up for sale, Her faith is gone for good."
"What faith?" I asked, they replied,
"That rock where you once stood."

You raised your hand to speak,
A light went off somewhere.
I watched your message vanish In the frozen air.
No one could melt the silence
That rose out of my mouth.
I left you in my power and I
Drove off, heading south.

CHORUS

But I'll be damned if I believe
That I could cause such pain!
You've got your freedom
And your good name.
And I'll be damned if I'll be
Made to question what I am!
But if I'm wrong this time...
I could be wrong this time...
If I've done you wrong this time,
I'll be damned.

I guess I stayed too long
On the outer fringe of love.
The safety of your harbor
Wasn't sweet enough.
Now I can't name the danger
That robs me of my peace.
I can't feel your tenderness,
My walls are much too steep.
