

1. WE'RE ALL ALIKE – (by JW and Geoff Bartley)

Bringing us all together - 2003 song with new lyrics

It's always raining when the tire goes flat
The dog comes in when you put out the cat
We're all gettin' older, no way around that
If it ain't one thing, it's gonna be another
Take ahold of my hand, let's run for cover

*We're all alike, we're all alike
We all know the difference 'tween wrong and right
We all put the baby in the cradle at night
We all need love, and that's all right,
We're all alike*

Some are named Pedro, some are named Fritz
Some goes walkin' while another one sits
Some eats hash browns, some eat grits
There ain't a dime's bit of difference 'tween left and right
If you got a stick of candy everybody wants a bite
We're all alike

Black man, white man, Muslim and Jew
Walk into a bar and say "How do you do?"
Along comes a baptist and young Hindu
They have a couple drinks, sing a couple songs,
The proof's in the pudding, we can all get along
We're all alike

We all get cold when the fire goes out
Confidence is shaken when we give in to doubt
So we do the Hokey Pokey 'cause that's what it's all about
We take a trip to Canada or Katmandu
Where they laugh and they cry and they walk like you
We're all alike

Red, yellow, black and tan
All the world's children must understand
That it might be the fire or the fryin' pan
Be we can make it all better if we get together
With an open heart and a willin' hand
We're all alike
