

YOU'RE THE ONE Lyrics and music © Jack Williams

Well, I'm one for you honey.
I'm through with the show,
But I ain't goin' nowhere if you can't go.
I'm bettin' my life and my sanity, too,
The whole nine yards, the whole ball of wax
On me and you.
I'll risk the farm. I'll take the chance.
"Cause we raised the stakes
from a one night stand
To a true romance.

CHORUS You're the one. You're the one.
You hung the moon, stars and the sun.
You're the one.
You're the best in the whole wide world.
You're the one.

Can't no hurricane blow this house down.
Not even an earthquake, 7.9
Could turn my head around.
There's a blizzard outside and the wind is strong,
But I'm rock-steady on my feet where I belong.
Send a twister my way.
Let the lightning strike.
But it won't tear apart this house of love.
Let 'em howl all night.

CHORUS You're the one. You're the one.
You hung the moon, stars and the sun.
You're the one.
You're the light of the whole wide world.
You're the one.

Great Salt Lake.
The Gulf of Mexico.
The big Okeechobee, the Atlantic and Pacific
And the Shenandoah.
The water is wide, cold and deep,
But it all comes together in a big, blue ball
At my baby's feet.
I'd catch all the rain fallin' from the sky
And bring it in a bucket to you, baby,
When your well runs dry.
